Group urging Mandela to visit here

By JERRY URBAN
Houston Chronicle

Negotiations continue for the possible visit of Nelson Mandela to Houston, a black community leader and a spokeswoman for an upcoming alternative economic summit said Thursday.

The Rev. J. Don Boney, president of the Black United Front chapter in Houston, said efforts are aimed at bringing the South African black activist here in July to address "The Other Economic Summit," also known as TOES.

TOES is held annually at the same time as the international economic summit to focus attention to problems and issues in areas of the world other than the great industrial nations.

Kgosie Matthews, a spokesman for the African National Congress in Washington, which is coordinating Mandela's U.S. visit next month, said his tour is fixed and does not include Houston.

However, Judy Pearson, local media coordinator for TOES, said negotiations are under way with ANC officials in Washington, and Matthews apparently is not privy to them.

Mandela, deputy president of the ANC, is scheduled to visit New York City, Boston, Washington, Atlanta, Miami, Detroit and Los Angeles from June 20 to June 30.

"I, along with some others, have been working on the possibility of Mandela coming to Houston since probably 30 days within his release from prison (last February)," said Boney. "It's better than a 50-50 chance (that Mandela will come to Houston)."

Boney said negotiations with ANC could be hampered by difficulties in finding a location here for the TOES conference, scheduled July 6-8. The international economic summit will be held at Rice University July 9-11.

"It's a question of scheduling time (for a Mandela visit here) and rationale," Boney said. "I believe we have the strongest rationale of any city in the country."

Boney said a Mandela visit around the time of the international economic summit would be an opportune time because the ANC continues to oppose the lifting of sanctions.

Boney said the city of Houston has a strong anti-apartheid ordinance restricting the city from doing business with companies that trade with or in South Africa.
